Livorno and the Grand Duchy of Tuscany

The maritime history of Livorno dates back to the Renaissance, when it was the port of the Grand Duchy of Tuscany. Livorno has always been the crossroads of the Mediterranean Sea routes as well as the gateway to Tuscany. The surrounding gentle hills and luxuriant Mediterranean scrubland slope down to the amazing coastline of the Tyrrhenian Sea, where the enchanting islands of the Tuscan archipelago lie. Moreover, the most famous art cities and beaches of the region are just a few kilometers away from the port.

Born as a melting pot of cultures and traditions, Livorno has got a friendly and welcoming population. The Little Venice is a seafaring district, where a maze of canals flows among the elegant 17th century villas of the wealthy middle-class traders, and is located between two imposing Medicean Fortresses.

Livorno is also rich in monumental cemeteries and churches of different beliefs, which indeed witness the historical openness to other cultures. The Sanctuary of Montenero is reachable by a picturesque funicular and overlooks the town.

The seafront promenade runs from the town centre to the cliffs of Romito, where the water is crystal clear and the landscapes are really breath-taking.

Not to be missed, the lively markets, rich in smells, colours and voices. Livorno is also Modigliani and Mascagni's birthplace, as well as the culinary home of a tasty seafood cuisine, which contributes to make it an absolutely attractive destination.

Bolgheri and the Wine Route

Travelling along the Roman "Emilia" and "Aurelia" consolar roads we reach sites of great historic, scenic and gastronomic interest. The "Etruscan Coast Wine and Olive Oil Route" gives travellers the opportunity to discover fine wines and olive oils and visit medieval towns like Collesalveti, Rosignano, Montescudaio, Guardistallo, Castellina, Bibbona, Casale before continuing on to Castagneto and San Vincenzo and finally reaching Sassetta, Monteverdi, Campiglia, Suvereto and Piombino at the southern edge of Livorno province.

The suggestive avenue of secular cypresses made immortal by the poet Giosuè Carducci's rhymes, leads from San Guido to Bolgheri, a delightful medieval village in the heart of the Wine Route. Bolgheri has preserved its original layout and buildings, although these have now become craft and workshops, restaurants and wine stores.

A short distance away on the hillside is Castagneto Carducci, an enchanting village of Etruscan origin. From here you can admire the splendid view of the olive groves, vineyards and Mediterranean woods which slope gently down to the sea. This is a noble and ancient area where you can find producers of some of the most prestigious wines in the world. One of these is Sassicaia that has become a symbol of unerring Tuscan excellence and has helped to make this area the cradle of superlative Italian oenology. Here you can enjoy traditional culinary delights and olive oil and drink a great variety of wines with their refined taste and unique character.
